

Rain Out and Refund Policy

Regions have until December 1st of the prior year to commit to participation. Once committed, the Regions are taking financial responsibility for fielding their allocated teams.

- If a region withdraws from the tournament for any reason, after the commitment date, the region will be responsible for the full team fee and if already paid, will not receive a refund.
- If a region team is removed for the tournament for any reason, the region will be responsible for the full team fee and if already paid, will not receive a refund.
- If it is necessary to suspend a tournament due to weather or some other unforeseen event, the tournament committee will deduct all expenses for the event and may issue partial refunds to the Regions. Please note: this is a unique event that has many expenses outside the typical game fees that a normal tournament would have.
- The All-American Games Committee has final say on if any refunds are given and in what amount.